

About Ana

Ana Toledo is an experienced labor and employment attorney. Clients can rely on her to take into account their unique circumstances in providing expert legal advice, whether it is counseling on personnel policies or resolving disputes that have escalated to litigation. Ana represents employers in various industries in a variety of workplace issues and disputes including wage and hour class actions, discrimination, harassment, unfair labor practices and government agency investigations and citations.

Ana graduated from Santa Clara University School of Law. She also holds a BA degree from the University of California at Los Angeles and an M.Div. from Princeton Theological Seminary. She speaks Portuguese and Spanish. Ana enjoys contributing her time to community service activities. She has served on the Boards of Center for Community Advocacy, York School and the National Steinbeck Center.

In 2025, Ana joined the Board of Directors of Monterey Jazz, the nonprofit which produces the world-famous Monterey Jazz Festival.
